

Your comments invited by 11 March on our draft work programme

As advertised in our last e-bulletin, we would welcome your comments on our draft work programme (document 2266). Can you please send them to contact@corwm.org.uk no later than 11 March. We shall then review our plans and send them to Government by the end of March, as they requested.

This is a very short timescale, so we are only looking for your initial comments at this stage. There will be further opportunities later. For example:

- We shall be adding more details to our programme as the year progresses, particularly to set out what each of our working groups will do and when. We shall tell you in e-bulletins about these additions.
- Government has asked us for a 3-year rolling programme, so in early 2009 (and every year after that) we shall be planning the first year's work in detail, reviewing our outline plans for the second year, and drawing up an outline for the third year.
- We hold our plenary meetings in public, roughly every 1-2 months. So you can attend these meetings, watch us delivering and developing our programme, and let us have your comments.
